

Men suspected in local theft ring

by ERIN MCCOY
Landmark News Service

Two men arrested in connection with the theft of a plow from a field near Thomas Nelson High School are suspected in a Spencer County scrap metal theft ring.

Timothy R. Richardson, 28, Bardstown, and Jason R. Mink, 30, Mount Washington, were arrested around noon Monday and charged with receiving stolen property.

A press release from Bardstown Police alleges the men were connected with the theft of a plow belonging to Land Enterprises of Bardstown from a field off KY 245, near the Thomas Nelson High School construction site. The 800-pound plow was stolen from a farm Monday morning and allegedly sold as scrap metal at Waddell's Recycling for $99.

But according to Bardstown Police Detective Lynn Davis, Waddell's had been asked to keep a lookout for Richardson by the Spencer County Sheriff's Office.

"They're conducting an investigation of stolen metals and they had a suspect, Timothy Richardson," Davis said.

"When something just doesn't look right they're very good about calling us," Bardstown Police Chief Rick McCubbin said of Waddell's.

Richardson and Mink allegedly lied to police upon initial questioning at the police department, then changed their stories and

Future of three-year-old initiative to bring course to state park in question

SHANNON BROCK/The Spencer Magnet

Editor Shannon Brock photographed players at the Anderson County Community Park disc golf course Monday afternoon.

Not even a year ago, the Possum Ridge Disc Golf Club was working to clear a 24-hole disc golf course at Taylorsville Lake State Park. With many volunteers, donated equipment and approval from the U.S. Army Corps of Engineers, it seemed as if plans to bring the free outdoor recreational activity to Taylorsville Lake State Park were just months from reality.

But a lack of communication and frustration now surround the initiative. The future of the course is in peril, and, according to state park officials, it is unclear as to if the course is ever going to come to fruition.

After investigating why there were no new developments in regard to the course, Spencer Magnet reporters found that at the state level, the project had been all but totally dismissed by the Kentucky Department of Parks — but that decision had not been shared with local members of the Possum Ridge Disc Golf Club.

see GOLF, page A-7

WHAT IS DISC GOLF?

Following mostly along the lines of traditional golf, the goal in disc golf is to successfully land a plastic disc — which looks a lot like a regular Frisbee — into an elevated, metal basket with the fewest number of throws. Players keep score as in traditional golf by recording the number of strokes, or in this case throws. The person with the lowest score wins. Disc golfers can access the courses for free, and most discs range in price from $12 to $18. While there are specialty discs — those for putting, mid-range throws and distance throws — all aren't necessary to give the game a go.

KSP: Man suffers heart attack before accident Saturday

by MALLORY BILGER
Magnet Staff Writer

A Louisville man was found dead following a one-vehicle accident Saturday afternoon after police say he suffered a heart attack and wrecked.

Michael W. Proctor, 45, was traveling northbound on Ky. 155 about five miles north of Taylorsville when motorists reported he had his flashers on and was weaving on the roadway, said Kentucky State Police public affairs officer Ron Turley.

Turley said Proctor left the southbound side of the highway and struck a tree around 1:15 p.m. He was driving a 1997 Mercury Mountaineer.

"It has been determined that the driver had a heart attack prior to the collision," Turley said. "It caused him to lose control of the vehicle."

Turley said Proctor was not wearing a seat belt, but that was not identified as a factor in the crash.

Proctor was not ejected from the vehicle.

No one else was in the vehicle at the time of the crash.

State police are following up with a death investigation, which Turley noted is procedure any time a fatal crash occurs.

State police was assisted by the Spencer County Coroner's Office, EMS and the Taylorsville-Spencer County Fire Department. The Spencer County Sheriff's Department was also on the scene.

This story will be updated on The Spencer Magnet's website when an official release is received from state police.

Mayor discusses economic development, rental property in 'State of the City' address

by SHANNON BROCK
Spencer Magnet Editor

During the State of the City address Thursday afternoon, Taylorsville Mayor Don Pay spoke to Chamber of Commerce members about the city's wastewater treatment plant, rental property within the city and economic development, even calling out his own commissioners for their lack of support of his efforts to upgrade Taylorsville to a fourth-class city.

Reclassifying Taylorsville from a fifth-class to a fourth-class city would "open the door for economic development," Pay told the Chamber members.

Pay mentioned that he brought a resolution to support the reclassification before the commission several times, but only had the support of one commissioner, making it impossible for the resolution to pass.

"I hate to throw rocks at my own commission," Pay said. "But I'm upset with them."

Pay noted that House Bill 191, before the General Assembly this session, could make Taylorsville a fourth-class city, but he could not predict how far the bill would go.

Pay said the city and its citizens need to be prepared to move forward when the economy picks up.

"We need to do everything we can to grab onto that train when we pick up," he said. "I don't want to see tumbleweeds down Main Street."

Pay also told Chamber members that the Taylorsville wastewater treatment plant expansion is Items will be collected at the high school through Friday.

Items needed:
-paper products
-bottled water
-batteries
-non-perishable food
-cleaning supplies
-hygiene products
-school supplies
-baby products

Any donations will be greatly appreciated.

EMS to take up donations for areas hit by tornadoes

Spencer County EMS is taking up collections for communities devastated by Friday's storms in our region.

“From what we understand several communities have been greatly impacted and the people have lost everything,” an announcement from the department said.

Items needed include, but are not limited to, clothes of all sizes, children's toys, household goods and toiletries, cleaning supplies, water, canned goods or anything else that can be spared.

Donations will be accepted from 9 a.m. to 4 p.m. at the Spencer County Sheriff's Office through Friday, March 16. Representatives from EMS will also come pick up items. To arrange a pick-up time, call EMS at 477-3244 or Director Jeff Coulter at 502-817-0237.

Tea party to meet

The Spencer County Tea Party will meet Thursday at 7 p.m. at the Farm Bureau Building, located at 695 Taylorsville Road (next to Dairy Queen).

Speakers will be Jeff Willis and Tomas Mauricio, of Advocates for America Radio Network.

Willis is the author of “E is for English,” a recently published book that proposes a 28th amendment to the Constitution. He is also the founder of Eagles for America — a nationwide blog.

Mauricio is a multi-lingual former professor of humanities and music with a successful career as performing artist and teacher. The son of immigrant parents from Cuba and Spain, Mauricio offers the Constitutionalist point of view.

The two host a one-hour daily radio show available in a number of cities in Kentucky and surrounding states.

For additional information about the Spencer County Tea Party, contact Carol Ferriell at 618-1940 or Rick Devine at 641-2346.

Lactose Intolerance
A condition called lactose intolerance is characterized by difficulty digesting foods containing lactose, which mainly involve dairy products. Lactose is a sugar contained in milk. The condition occurs to varying degrees by ethnicity, affecting approximately 10% to 20% of Caucasians, up to 75% of African Americans, and over 90% of some Asian cultures. Consumption of any product containing milk may lead to unpleasant gastrointestinal symptoms in affected persons, including abdominal pain and diarrhea. A deficiency or abnormality of the enzyme lactase, with functions to breakdown lactose, can lead to the condition.

Persons affected by the condition are encouraged to decrease lactose in the diet, maintain adequate intake of calcium and vitamin D, and to maintain adequate nutrition through alternative sources. Milk and ice cream contain a high lactose content. Persons who are particularly susceptible to the symptoms of lactose intolerance may choose to read labels, taking care to avoid items containing milk or any other milk product, and whey. Calcium carbonate (Tums) can be taken daily as a calcium supplement. Lactaid (lactase) is an enzyme supplement that can be taken before meals containing dairy to reduce the symptoms of lactose intolerance. Other lactase preparations include DairyEase, Lactrol, and LactAce.

This map shows all 16 of Spencer County's voter precincts, as well as the line that splits the county between the second and fourth congressional districts. One precinct, North Campbranch 9C, shown in a light teal color, only includes 12 registered voters. The congressional district split, coupled with the Kentucky Supreme Court decision to go back to the 2002 Kentucky House of Representatives legislative lines, forced the Spencer County Board of Elections to create some smaller precincts because individual precincts cannot cross the boundary lines. For other maps detailing magisterial districts and the state representative districts, visit www.spencermagnet.com.

Spencer will have 16 voter precincts in primary election

by SHANNON BROCK
Spencer Magnet Editor

When this year's primary election rolls around on May 22, some Spencer Countians will find themselves voting in new precincts at new locations and in new districts.

Every 10 years, when a new census is completed, magisterial, state representative and congressional district lines are among those that have to be redrawn based on population changes.

The Spencer County Fiscal Court approved magisterial districts last year. After making its way through the court system, a house bill proposing new state representative lines was declared unconstitutional and house districts were reverted back to the 2002 lines. After much debate earlier this year, the General Assembly approved new congressional lines.

All of these changes created the need for Spencer County's precincts to increase in number to 16.

According to KRS 117.055, election precincts must be "composed of contiguous, and as nearly as practicable, compact areas having clearly definable boundaries and wholly contained within any larger district.

No boundary of a precinct can cross the boundary of the state, the county, a congressional district, a state senatorial district, a state representative district, a justice of the peace or county commissioner's district, or an aldermanic ward.

Spencer is one of only six Kentucky counties to be split between two congressional districts and, despite its relatively small population, based on 2002 state representative lines, Spencer County is split among three state representative districts.

These lines, along with the lines dividing the county into five magisterial districts, forced the Spencer County Board of Elections to increase the number of voter precincts from 11 to 16.

Those voter precincts were approved by the state board of elections for the 2012 primary election only, Spencer County Clerk Lynn Hesselbrock said.

Though more voter precincts may have adjustments, the six new voter precincts are in the North Campbranch area, and all six will vote in May at the fire house on Water Street in Taylorsville.

Voter precinct locations are as follows:

- Taylorsville #1 - First Baptist Church
- Waterford #3 - Plum Creek Baptist Church
- Waterford #10, Elk Creek #4, Elk Creek #8, Normandy #11 - Spencer Christian Church
- Campbranch #5 - Ashes Creek Fire House
- Campbranch #2 - Cotton Lane Fire House
- North Campbranch #9A,

9B, 9C, 9D, 9E, 9F - Taylorsville Fire House

Revive plans for disc golf course

How many times have you heard someone say there just isn't anything for young people to do in Spencer County? Outside of rec league sports and extra-curricular activities at school, the options are pretty limited.

Our hope is that something happens — and fast — to resuscitate the disc golf course originally planned to be open by now at Taylorsville Lake State Park.

Many Spencer Countians aren't familiar with the game of disc golf and a lot will dismiss it because it's unfamiliar.

We urge you to keep reading and get to know this game that most anyone can play.

Think of traditional golf, but replace the golf balls with discs, the holes with elevated metal baskets, and the clubs with human arms.

Score is kept the same way with the object being to get the disc in the basket in as few throws as possible. There are typically nine or 18 "holes" per course, though Spencer County's was slated to have 24. The discs, which are not just regular Frisbees, come in different thicknesses, with different rims, depending on the purpose of each disc — some are used for putting, some for mid-range throws and some for distance drives.

Whereas traditional golf is more of a "country club" type sport, that can cost its players hundreds of dollars, disc golf has a relatively low start-up cost. A quick Google search reveals that a three-disc starter pack is only $14 — and most courses are free to play.

While we're talking about cost, this 24-hole, tournament-size course, which has already been designed for our state park, was coming to our area at a minimal cost. The majority of the baskets were donated from another state park, course design and surveying, as well as concrete for the tee-pads, had already been donated.

Other costs had been fronted out of pocket by members of the Possum Ridge Disc Golf Club — what a shame it will be if their hard work, time and money were all for naught.

The benefits of bringing a disc golf course to Spencer County are numerous.

As we've already alluded, many disc golfers are young (though they don't have to be), so this presents a safe, fun activity for our youth to enjoy.

Playing the game itself is cheap — especially when you compare it to other activities currently available, like traditional golf and horse riding. We have nothing against those activities, but the cost surrounding them puts an economic limit on who can participate.

Word on the street is that the park already draws 800,000 people through Spencer County each year. We think that number could significantly increase because disc golfers will travel. Courses develop reputations, and disc golf enthusiasts from all across the state and even the country would be sure to find their paths leading through Spencer County.

The future of this course sounds bleak, but we're keeping our hopes up that someone or some group will not let it die.

We wish the best of luck to the PRDGC, and urge our city and county officials to support this effort because we just can't find a reason not to.

'I want to be like Mikie'

I am writing this letter in honor of my granddaughter, "Mikie." She cannot deny or defend because her words are lost forever.

Only the family and friends are left to hear comments and whispers and accusations made by not knowing.

Apparently some decided she had been glorified in her death, so it was their duty or obligation to put her in her place. I guess the media agreed — they were the ones who called, texted anyone they could to find out more and more. One media outlet even went as far as sneaking a camera in a camo bag into the funeral.

So, who did the glorifying? Only a handful of people will ever know the love and respect of her that day. She was the same girl the day after as she was the day before that people loved.

Mikie was a homegrown country girl and would tell you so quickly. Her love for the farm and outdoors was always seen by the neverending smile on her face. She was going to go in the fish and wildlife program because she said, "I have to be outdoors."

She took everybody for who they were and never turned away. She had a love for life that was so zestful and wondrous.

There were words in the paper, "don't be shamed," I was never nor will I ever be ashamed of my "Mikie." Time will tell all some day, but in the meantime, I as well as others will say, "I want to be like Mikie."

Cathy Monroe
Taylorsville

Editor's note: Though Ms. Monroe did not identify the media outlet she says brought a camera into the funeral without permission, she did confirm it was not The Spencer Magnet, who attended the funeral with permission from the family.

Avoid storm-chasing contractors

The Spencer County community was hit by a large and destructive hailstorm on Friday, March 2. After such an event it can be difficult to separate the legitimate local contractors from the out of state storm chasers. Here are some steps that you can take to avoid accepting offers from roof contractors that may not be up to standards nor supportive of local workers and our local economy.

- Look for out of state tags on their trucks. Out of state tags indicate that the contractor is only in town for the storm work and won't be here to satisfy any warranty work or service after the sale.

- Know that roofing contractor's liability insurance is expensive. This can lead some contractors to cut corners to avoid the expense. Make sure that your contractor can provide you with a certificate of insurance. Insurance companies will not give a certificate of insurance to the contractor. The contractor or you must contact their insurance agent and request a certificate of insurance with you listed as the certificate holder. This will prove not only that the contractor has proper insurance beyond a shadow of a doubt, but you will also be notified if that insurance is dropped.

- Make sure that all materials are paid for. If a contractor uses materials on your home and fails to pay for them, the supplier has no choice but to come to the homeowner to pay for those materials. If this occurs, you may have to pay for the materials twice, or undergo costly and time-consuming legal efforts.

- Prefer the local contractors. They will be around to service their work afterward and they will keep the money in the local economy.

- Be patient and take your time making the decision. The hail damage that we experienced is not likely causing immediate leaks. If leaking is an issue, a temporary fix can be done in the interim to avoid further damage and your insurance company can pay for this temporary repair. It may take longer for the local contractor to get to your project, but the results will likely be much more in your favor in the long run.

- Storm chasing is a multi-million dollar industry. Several of them travel with their own contract

STAFF REPORT
The Spencer Magnet

Violent storms rolled through the state on March 2 leaving everything from hail damage in Spencer County to total devastation in other areas across Kentucky.

Following the storms were many contractors looking to help those affected pick up the pieces, but how should citizens know who to trust?

Although no scamming contractors have been reported to law enforcement in Taylorsville or Spencer County, Taylorsville Police Chief Toby Lewis has some advice for citizens moving forward.

A number of contractors have been in the area, Lewis said, even one from as far as Pennsylvania.

“I’ve tried to make contact with all of them,” Lewis said.

Lewis advised city residents in need of contractors to ask to see the contractor’s city business license. When applying for the license, contractors have to show ID, Lewis said.

No scams have been reported in the city, but Lewis said he has pointed a couple of contractors to City Hall to obtain a required business license.

Spencer County Sheriff Buddy

Stump said he hadn’t heard of any contracting scams in the county either.

Still, citizens can never be too careful when hiring a business to perform important work. The Better Business Bureau in Louisville urges homeowners to use extreme caution when dealing with “door-to-door” or “out of state” solicitors who offer “quality work at great prices.” The BBB offers the following tips for consumers who may be facing major repairs after a disaster hits home:

- Contact your insurance company immediately.
- Deal only with licensed and insured contractors. Verify the track record of any roofer, builder or contractor you’re thinking of hiring. Ask for a list of recent customers and call them.
- Get recommendations from friends, relatives, neighbors, co-workers, insurance agents or claims adjusters. Also check with the local Better Business Bureau and Home Builders Association to see if complaints have been lodged against any contractor you’re considering.
- Get two or three estimates before you decide who to hire for the job.
- Take your time signing a contract. Get a written estimate that includes any oral promises the contractor made. But remember to ask if there’s a charge for an estimate before allowing anyone into your home. Ask for explanations for price variations, and don’t automatically choose the lowest bidder. Get a copy of the final, signed contract before the job begins.

- Resist dealing with any contractor who asks you to pay for the entire job up-front. A deposit of one-third of the total price is standard procedure. Pay only by check or credit card — and pay the final amount only after the work is completed to your satisfaction. Don’t pay cash.
- Be skeptical of contractors who encourage you to spend a lot of money on temporary repairs. Make sure there’s enough money for permanent repairs.
- Ask a knowledgeable friend, relative or attorney to review a home repair contract before you sign. If you get a loan to pay for the work, be cautious about using your home as security: If you don’t repay the loan as agreed, you could lose your home. Consider asking an attorney to review the loan documents, as well.

Before you hire, check out the company’s BBB Business Review at www.bbb.org or call 1-800-388-2222.

This text message is a scam, said Taylorsville Police Chief Toby Lewis. The text made the rounds in the city on Monday.

Police chief: Beware text message scam

STAFF REPORT
The Spencer Magnet

Taylorsville Police Chief Toby Lewis contacted the Spencer Magnet on Monday afternoon to help alert citizens of a text message scam making its way around Taylorsville and Spencer County.

Lewis said he received two calls within 10 to 15 minutes reporting a text message claiming to be from Republic Bank. The message alerts of an issue with the customer’s account and urges those receiving the message to call a number with a 501 area code immediately.

Upon calling this number, citizens were asked for their credit card number and PIN number.

“Don’t give any of that information over the phone,” Lewis said. “It is a scam.”

A member of the Spencer Magnet staff received a similar text message around 4:30 p.m. Monday afternoon, but this time the message urged the recipient to call a number with a 314 area code.

Lewis said he has contacted the Secret Service, who will investigate the scam.

To report this or any other scam, contact the Taylorsville Police Department by calling 477-3231.

adjusters. Just because a contractor shows up to your home with the adjuster does not mean that you have to use that contractor. Again, be patient and take some time to do your own research.

What sensationalism?

The Spencer Magnet did not do sensationalism. One article presenting the truth of an accident as given by the police is not sensationalism.

What happened in that accident was precipitated by the actions of those in the vehicle and no one else. It was their choice to do as they did and no one forced them to do it. The newspaper was simply printing the news.

If you want sensationalism look at the Courier-Journal and all the TV stations in Louisville pertaining to the tornadoes that went through Kentucky and Indiana. [March 2] before the storm, all four stations had weather reports all day long. Then when the tornadoes went through, they ran the interviews and views of the destruction from Friday night and almost all day Saturday. Every news show, morning, noon and night, every day was nothing but interviews and views of the destruction. Over and over they repeated the same things and asked the same questions and showed the same areas of destruction.

As I write this letter it is Wednesday [March 7] and they are STILL running almost nonstop interviews and views of the destruction. That is sensationalism at the extreme.

I have never seen The Spencer Magnet do anything even approaching sensationalism, and I don’t think they would sink to that level no matter what the situation is. The Spencer Magnet does a good job of covering the news as it should be done. I fully expect them and want them to put all local news in no matter how gruesome or repulsive anyone may think it is. The job of Spencer Magnet is to print the truth and everything that happens in the county, no matter what it is.

The truth of the matter is people do things that may put them in a bad situation. I understand the sorrow of any family that is visited by any tragedy, but it is the job of a newspaper to print the news, and print the news, it should. I don’t want to see any newspaper being censored by the public, the newspaper should censor itself if it’s done at all.

Censorship of newspapers, radio, TV and other sources by the public is not allowed in the U.S.A. We still do have the First Amendment, as far as I know. I don’t think Obama has cut that out of the Constitution, not yet anyway. Do you really want everything censored by the government? If so, then start advocating for the removal of the First Amendment of the Constitution of the U.S.A. and state constitutions.

CHURCH

Make it a point to love your neighbor

TODAY

by JON
ROHR
Pastor of Plum
Creek Baptist
Church

Do you know your neighbors? I don't mean just to speak to; I mean do you know them? Do you know their struggles, the challenges they face, the burdens they bear? I bet you know more about them than you think.

For example, I grew up in a suburb of Baltimore. Across the street was an older couple who had no kids of their own. Next to them lived a police officer and his young bride and new baby. Our next door neighbors were from Great Britain. He taught high school and one day found his Volkswagen placed on his porch by some prankish kids.

Just that little description tells us a lot. For example, that elderly couple might have worried about their future without any children around. Their neighbors were coping with a new baby and I wonder if that officer's wife ever worried about him. Our British neighbors often talked about missing their homes in London. Each of our neighbors has needs and heartaches, hopes and fears.

Your neighbors are probably a little different than mine, but I bet you know some young families, or some older couples, maybe an elderly man or woman living alone. You can probably imagine their struggles and challenges. You've probably faced some of them yourself.

The Bible tells us to be good neighbors, but how? Let's face it, unless you are Bill Gates, you probably don't have enough money to make a huge difference. And unless you are Betty Crocker, you probably can't cook enough to ease everyone's burdens.

But, we as believers have access to more than Bill Gates ever imagined. We have a loving father who cares and asks us to pray for our neighbors. Paul says, "I urge, then, first of all, that requests, prayers, intercession and thanksgiving be made for everyone" (1 Timothy 2:1 NIV).

First of all, pray. Call upon the maker of the universe to make a difference in your neighborhood, in your community, for your friends.

This week take a little extra time to notice your neighbors. Pray for what you see, pray for what only the Lord can see. Pray for that young family and for their sometimes-noisy kids. Pray for the lonely and the worn out. Take a little of your time to love your neighbors, after all, Jesus gave his life showing his love for us.

Ministerial Association collecting supplies for West Liberty

The Spencer County Ministerial Association is working with the Spencer County Sheriff's Office to send needed supplies to tornado ravaged West Liberty. The sheriff's department has already delivered some needed supplies to New Hope Baptist Church, which is serving as a distribution point in the area.

While there, the sheriff's department was made aware of critical needs for canned goods and non-perishable food items. Of particular need are things like baby food and formula, as well as diapers and paper goods.

"We are asking the residents of Spencer County to help us in meeting these needs," a news release from the SCMA said. "Please collect whatever items you can and drop them off at the sheriff's office by Friday afternoon."

The sheriff's office will make sure the items get to New Hope and are distributed in West Liberty.

Five indicted on multiple burglary, theft allegations

by MALLORY BILGER
Magnet Staff Writer

The Spencer County Grand Jury recently handed down indictments on five individuals accused of involvement with local burglary and theft reports.

Two indicted in Mount Washington Road burglary

Michael A. Peak Jr., 20, of Mount Washington, and Sarah Dalton, 18, of Shepherdsville, have both been indicted on two counts of theft by unlawful taking, one count of first-degree burglary, one count of tampering with physical evidence and one count of third-degree criminal mischief.

The indictments stem from a Dec. 27 incident, when Peak and Dalton allegedly broke into a residence in the 5000 block of Mount Washington Road. Sheriff Donald “Buddy” Stump said his department, with assistance from the Mount Washington Police Department, apprehended Peak on Dec. 28. Stump said the resident was out of town when the theft occurred, but noted items missing upon returning and reported it immediately to law enforcement.

Dalton was later named in the case, arrested and charged.

According to the indictment, Peak and Dalton, acting alone or in complicity with one another, entered the residence unlawfully. The indictment also states that Peak or another participant was armed with explosives or a deadly weapon.

The indictment notes that Peak and Dalton allegedly stole $500 or more personal property, including a firearm.

According to the indictment, Peak and Dalton allegedly destroyed, mutilated, concealed, removed or altered physical evidence to hamper the investigation.

First-degree burglary is a class B felony, while theft by unlawful taking and tampering with physical evidence are class D felonies. Third-degree criminal mischief is a class B misdemeanor.

Peak and Dalton are scheduled to appear in Spencer Circuit Court April 23 at 9 a.m. for a case review.

Three indicted on burglary, theft charges in Spencer County

Taylorsville residents

Joseph McPherson and Homer L. Coleman, along with Mount Washington resident Ashley Sharp were indicted Feb. 23. McPherson, 23, and Sharp, 19, face four counts of second-degree burglary, a class C felony, and three counts of theft by unlawful taking, a class D felony, while Coleman, 24, faces three counts of second-degree burglary and three counts of theft by unlawful taking.

The charges stem from four separate incidents at four Spencer County residences. According to the indictment, the incidents include:

- Nov. 13, 2011: McPherson, Sharp and Coleman, alone or in complicity with one another, unlawfully entered a dwelling in the 4000 block of Plum Ridge Road with intent to commit a crime. According to the indictment, the event included the theft of property valued at $500 or more.
- Nov. 17, 2011: McPherson, Sharp and Coleman, alone or in complicity with one another, unlawfully entered a dwelling in the 500 block of Johnson Lane with intent to commit a crime. According to the indictment, the event included the theft of property valued at $500 or more.
- Nov. 25, 2011: McPherson and Sharp, alone or in complicity with one another, unlawfully entered a dwelling in the 3000 block of Mount Washington Road with intent to commit a crime.
- Nov. 27, 2011: McPherson, Sharp and Coleman, alone or in complicity with one another, unlawfully entered a dwelling in the 5000 block of Plum Creek Road with intent to commit a crime. According to the indictment, the event including the theft of property valued at $500 or more.

McPherson and Sharp are scheduled to be arraigned in Spencer Circuit Court March 22 at 9 a.m. Coleman is scheduled for a case review in Spencer Circuit Court April 23 at 9 a.m.

An indictment does not imply innocence or guilt, but is a formal accusation that a person or persons has committed a crime. It recognizes that there is enough evidence to proceed with a case.

admitted to the theft of the plow, the press release states.

Bardstown Police are working with Spencer County authorities to determine their connection with a ring of scrap metal thefts based in the county.

Golf

“There is an update on this,” said Spokesperson Gil Lawson, with the department of parks. “There had been some discussions and plans about a disc golf course, however, there were also some concerned that this activity might not be compatible with the equestrian trails there. In addition to that, I think the park management looked at our experience with disc golf and found that it was more successful in urban areas.”

Lawson said he was unsure why the disc golf club members had not been notified.

Disc golf club spokesperson Bill Drury said he received a phone call from the state about the issue just days after The Spencer Magnet inquiry. He said he was surprised to hear about the project’s status, and believes confusion and miscommunication are to blame.

“My feelings are, at this point, that there appears that there is a misunderstanding,” Drury said, noting that state parks commissioner Elaine Walker took her post in January, and might not have been fully aware of the three-year-long push to bring the course to Taylorsville Lake.

“Mrs. Walker is new to the office. She has not fully understood the depths of what has been done and the involvement of local government, all the way to the parks department and tourism cabinet,” Drury continued.

Spencer County Sheriff’s Dep. Tim Montgomery confirmed that he expected to make additional arrests in the case. He said early Tuesday afternoon that he did not want to discuss the scope of the thefts or who may be involved until those arrests were made.

Most of the thefts happened in Spencer County, Davis said.

A 1998 Dodge Durango SUV and a small trailer it was pulling were seized

When discussions first surfaced about a possible course as early as 2008, club members fronted their own money to make the organization a non profit. Equipment for the course, including the baskets — also known as pins — was donated from Jenny Wiley State Resort Park. Drury said the concrete for the pads and surveying services needed for the course had all been donated. The project wasn’t going to cost the department of parks or the county anything, he said.

In 2008, the club envisioned the course as being a destination for both professional disc golfers and amateurs. Spencer County Fiscal Court also passed a resolution in 2008 lending its support of the initiative.

Drury acknowledged there had been some concerns about the course interfering with horse riding trails at the park. The original location of the course was changed to better accommodate both activities, Drury said.

“We just moved locations to another section of the park. When we went into that late last year, some of the horse trails actually crossed with some of the disc golf course, so we had to address that. Once we had everything addressed, we had the final survey,” he said.

Drury said he has scheduled a meeting with members of the tourism and parks department next week in hopes to revive the initiative. He said he is not willing to give up on the course.

“Volunteers have already cleared 90 percent of the area that needed to be cleared for that course,” Drury said. “It is my hope that once we have this meet-by Bardstown Police, who stated they will hold the property until final disposition of the investigation. A small amount of marijuana was allegedly found inside the vehicle.

Richardson was additionally charged with possession of marijuana. Both men were lodged in the Nelson County Jail.

ing that everyone will understand in depth what’s happened over the last three years.”

Spencer County Judge Executive Bill Karrer said his most recent update of the project was similar to what Lawson told The Spencer Magnet. Karrer said he was told in a January meeting that the project had been canceled, noting that former Park Manager Scott Ringham was a big proponent of the project and was no longer with the parks department.

Karrer said there is a current push from the state level to expand and improve the park’s horse trails system, which could include overnight campsites and additional amenities. He said whether the park offers disc golf or additional equine recreational activities, he supported any initiative to promote the park and bolster tourism in Spencer County.

“I think it’s as good of a directive as anything and something we’ve developed,” Karrer said of equine recreation.

But Drury said it is still the disc golf club’s stance that the course could peacefully coexist with the horse trails, and offer a very low-cost and fun alternative recreational activity to Spencer County residents and beyond.

“The disc golf association is ready to move forward,” Drury said. “It would be a shame for this community to not have this resource for their families and children.”

a Spencer County mission group directed by North American Mission Board missionary David Hahn, is currently working on a building project to benefit the Oglala Lakota Sioux Native Americans who reside on Pine Ridge Indian Reservation in South Dakota.

With a low per capita income and high rates of alcoholism, Pine Ridge Indian Reservation is in need of assistance, according to a news release from Northern Lights.

Youth Evangelism Strategies (Y.E.S.), headed by Pastor Mike Brennan at Porcupine South Dakota, is a mission at work on the reservation. Northern Lights Missions has partnered with Brennan to help evangelize and improve the welfare of hundreds of Native American children and young families there.

“By faith we are moving forward to provide a multi-purpose building where presently none exists,” the news release said. The goal is $167,506.32. Approximately $40,000 has already been raised. All contributions will be applied toward this project and are tax deductible, according to the news release.

“We hope to work with many other volunteers this spring to build the facility,” the news release said.

Guthrie announces art competition

Congressman Brett Guthrie announced Friday the details of the 2012 Congressional Art Competition.

Each spring, the members of the U.S. House of Representatives Congressional Arts Caucus sponsor a nation-wide high school arts competition. The contest is an opportunity to recognize and encourage the artistic talent in the nation, as well as in each Congressional District. The contest is open to all high school students.

The winning entry selected to represent the Second Congressional District of Kentucky will be displayed in the U.S. Capitol as part of an exhibition comprised of artwork from across the country.

In addition to having his or her artwork on display, the winner will also be flown, with a guest, to Washington, D.C., to attend an awards ceremony.

All entries must be an original in concept, design and execution. All entries must be submitted to one of Guthrie's district offices by April 30.

For further information, contact Nan Natcher by calling 270-842-9896.

To view winners from the 2011 Congressional Art Competition or guidelines for submissions, please visit the Student Corner on Guthrie's website at www.guthrie.house.gov.

Spring weed control starts this week

IN THE GARDEN

by JENEEN WICHE
Garden Columnist

I think I have finally figured out the perfect machine for controlling those pesky spring weeds — sheep. Well, I know it is not for everyone (and I know it cannot last much longer for me) but our pregnant herd of Katahdin ewes are let loose from their pasture in the afternoon to graze freely within the secure fencing of the entire property for a few hours.

To my delight they have completely rid the mulched area beneath over 20 crabapples of chickweed, mouse ear, henbit, cress and any other savory weed that is otherwise my nemesis this time of the year. While the help is appreciated it won't be too long when it will be problematic to let them graze freely because they will start to eat my perennials, trees and shrubs . . . they are close to lambing and their pastures are greening up so it will balance itself out.

So if you don't have a flock what are you to do to control the onslaught of germinating weeds? Controlling certain weeds takes some strategic planning especially if you prefer to use as little chemical input as possible. For everyone's sake this should be the focus: human, pet, livestock, nature, water ways, etc. need to be protected. I have chickens that forage all over the place year round so there is no chance of using anything other than a well-timed strategy of hand-weeding, mulching, corn gluten and a little flame throwing, I'll explain.

You have probably already noticed some cool season weeds like henbit, chickweed and wild onion. Perennial performers like violets, dandelions and creeping Charlie are not far behind. Annual weeds spread by seed so if we address the young seedlings now, especially before they bloom, with a hoe or scratching tool in hand we have eliminated one generation. If the weed is a perennial like violets or wild onion then a bit more effort may be required. Every spring when the ground is moist I take my spade to the garden and pop out onions and violets from the mixed perennial beds. In a matter of about three years total I have eliminated some major weed problems by pulling, cultivating, mulching and using corn gluten pre-emergents.

Once your weeds are under control follow up with smart cultural practices like maintaining a taller stand of turf (don't mow grass shorter than 2 ½ inches); use 2 inches of mulch in beds and tree rings; and hoe or hand weed as soon as you notice something. You can also use corn gluten based products as a granular pre-emergent to prevent weed seed from germinating. For this product to work effectively you must follow up with an application about every 10 weeks. Corn gluten is perfectly safe and provides a small amount of nitrogen to the garden as well. Don't use it where you are starting plants from seed, however.

We also employ a flame weeder that I will use on annual weeds like henbit that can carpet some areas in the vegetable garden in spring. The "Dragon" effectively cooks young tender weed seedlings but getting to them early is key. Organic herbicides that prove effective for spot treating weeds includes those with clove and citrus oils as the active ingredient; a full strength vinegar spray will wither a weed, too, but you need to come back to it several times to starve the roots. Hand digging and pulling weeds with a friend is a great way to catch up; one week weed together in your yard, next week in your friend's yard. Lunch included.

If you are battling tough weeds like creeping Charlie you may be required to use a chemical to begin with; but if you properly use the product you should be able to follow up with hand weeding and cultural practices for long-term management. One treatment of a product that contains the active ingredients 2, 4-D, dicamba and triclopyr is effective on the most difficult weeds.

I would like to emphasize, however, that you want to follow label instructions exactly. It is better to use it once and take care of the problem then to be tempted to rely on synthetic herbicides throughout the season, year after year.

Clearly there is no magic bullet for weed control but we can take some common sense measures to devise an overall management plan.

We have come to rely too heavily on the use of herbicides to fix our problems when we already have all the free tools we need: memory, reason and nimble fingers.

Thomas retires from Salt River Board; Mann to assume duties

Submitted to the Magnet

Darwin Thomas, vice chairman of the Salt River Electric Board of Directors, retired from his post effective March 1.

First elected as a director to represent co-op customers in Spencer County in 1990, Thomas served 22 years before announcing his retirement.

"He has been a wonderful advocate for the people of his home county for a long, long time," said Larry Hicks, General Manager and CEO at Salt River. "Mr. Thomas has also served all of our 47,000 customers faithfully. We thank him for a job well done and congratulate him on his retirement."

Thomas' retirement comes with one year left on his current four-year term. As a result, Salt River's Board of Directors appointed Spencer County native Garry Mann to fill the seat until it expires in 2013.

Mann, who lives in the Waterford area of Spencer County, is an employee with B&B Fire Protection based in Jeffersonton. He and his wife, Jo, have four children.

"I want to do the best job possible to replace Darwin and represent the people of this county," Mann said. "If anyone needs anything I urge them to give me a call."

Mann said he can be reached at his home number (538-8674) or by cell at (751-7848).

Spencer County teams battle for River City championship

Submitted to the Magnet

Two Spencer County youth soccer teams recently battled for the championship of the River City Indoor Soccer League. The league consisted of teams from all over Kentucky and Southern Indiana. The Blaze won the championship against the Venomous Crew “in a battle in which all players left everything they had on the field,” according to a news release.

Both teams represented Spencer County well during the regular season and tournament, said Venomous Crew Coach Andy Mallory.

Kentuckiana — college basketball’s Mecca

March Madness is here and it’s like a holiday for basketball fans in Kentuckiana. The field of 68 was announced Sunday evening and regardless of what color hat you wear, there’s a likely a team for you to root for.

Forget about Tobacco Road. We live in college basketball’s Mecca and a quick scan of a map will reveal just how prominent and dominant basketball is in this area. Take Louisville, circle a 200-mile radius around the area and look how many teams are in the NCAA field are located within.

Kentucky, Louisville, Indiana, Cincinnati, Xavier, Ohio University, Western Kentucky University, and on the fringe are schools like Ohio State, Purdue, Murray State and Notre Dame. Among that group are nearly 20 NCAA titles, countless final fours and more than a couple of teams that are legitimate contenders to get to New Orleans this year.

ESPN recently confirmed that Louisville is the national leader when it comes to college basketball viewership and most televisions in this area will be tuned in to the tournament over the course of the next three weeks.

What are the prospects of some of these teams?

KENTUCKY: If there is a favorite to cut down the nets on the first Monday in April, the Wildcats are it. Don’t worry too much about that loss Sunday to Vanderbilt in the SEC Tournament Final, these Cats are the most talented team in the field. Vandy is a really great team that matches up well against Kentucky and beating them three times in a little more than a month’s span would have been an amazing task.

Kentucky will have to avoid foul trouble, will have to shoot a little better and exercise a little smarter shot selection than they did against Vandy (28 three-point attempts?) to get to the Final Four, but a 32-2 record is evidence they will do that much more often than not. Championship banner No. 8 may be on the horizon.

LOUISVILLE: What a difference a week makes. After finishing the regular season on a down note with a lot of fans griping about their coach, their future and their plummeting seed, the Cardinals resurrected hope and optimism with a four-game charge through New York to claim the Big East Tournament.

Rick Pitino went back to a stifling, pressure defense that had opponents in fits. The games weren’t pretty (and neither were the new, bright orange Louisville uniforms) but the Cardinals may have found a strategy to make another magical March run. There’s probably no coach in the field of 68 who wants to face Louisville’s defense anytime soon. Cardinal fans will be able to erase last year’s ugly first-round loss with a couple of wins in this year’s tournament, and the Cardinals are capable of doing even more.

INDIANA: Tom Crean is building a program at IU that will be a consistent contender. That they’ve arrived at that spot this soon is a testament to the loyalty of IU fans and the players who have put everything thing have on the court.

The Hoosiers could surprise some folks with a deep run, but just their arrival as a 4-seed after a few years of missing the tournament should have fans feeling great. The Hoosiers own some huge victories over top-5 teams, including two No. 1-seeds in Kentucky and Michigan State. They definitely have the potential to compete against anyone, but anything beyond a Sweet 16 finish would be an amazing finish to a wonderful year. The scary thing about Indiana however, is that they’re only getting started. The Hoosiers are back.

WESTERN KENTUCKY UNIVERSITY: Maybe the best story of any team in the tournament. The see MECCA, page B-9

Bring out the oohs and ahhs, it’s ‘big dance’ time in Kentucky

Best three weeks in sports? Roll out the jargon: Big dance ... bracketology ... good draw-bad draw ... “we wuz robbed” ... one to another Final Four and One Shining Moment punctuation.

Bonus? The Bluegrass State is so near the middle of it all, we can hear the heartbeats. Heck, we are the heartbeat.

Kentucky earned the No. 1 seed; Western Kentucky got a play-in; Murray State is the lone once-beaten; and Louisville, like a good Derby horse, roared out of the pack to win its league tournament then was cast as underdog to Davidson. Peculiar that, but perfect for Big Mo.

College basketball’s place on the calendar and the tube reduces all else in sports to below-the-fold also-stuff. This includes Peyton Manning’s next stop, Kentucky Derby candidate Union Rags, the NIT field and the country’s only unbeaten college baseball team, University of Kentucky, 16-0. And, with CBS, TBS, TNT and truTV doing games, a clamp on Dick Vitale’s mouth.

From San Diego State to Harvard yard, all things are possible and move us to anticipate who will be this year’s Butler and VCU? Which big dog will fall first: North Carolina, Kansas, Michigan State, Kentucky? Who will be Ty Rogers for 2012?

Thoughts on the SEC Tournament — As if scripted, John Calipari’s team rid itself of (perceived?) pressure from 24-wins-in-a-row Sunday. Pressure removed, a game film is the result. A Vanderbilt production. Video title: Ways to beat Kentucky. The Commodores’ win, and it was more than a UK loss, was tough, smart, relentless, no surrender, swish and “hey, Kentucky is beatable!”

A career moment, too, for Kevin Stallings and a four-word catapult to the Commodores psyche heretofore said to be too soft. “We can beat anybody.”

In Kentucky a few cautionary notes for our Big Dance entries. Flashing yellow lights that could undo a March march.

KENTUCKY

1. Beware of the Praises of March. They are many, frequent, well-intentioned and in the NCAAAs, a distraction. This includes NBA draft order buzz.

2. Try and forget — before the clocks fall back in autumn, four or more beloveds on this team will have packed up and gone from Lexington, including one destined for legend-status here and in the black hole (NBA), 19-year-old Anthony Davis.

3. History. Promising UK teams past have lapsed into mysterious shooting holes and were dispatched early on empty trips home (see Georgetown, 1984).

4. Talking-head punditry touting Kentucky-Syracuse final. Ignore it. 5. Numbers to avoid — five, zero and 16. Michael Kidd-Gilchrist points, rebounds and minutes in SEC title game.

6. Calling Terrence Jones’ number early prevents a Jones disappearance (Indiana).

7. Recall Al McGuire’s NCAA tourney golden rule: “One, maybe two games, will be decided at the free throw line.”

8. Ignore Dick Vitale altogether. 9. 28 and six. Number of threes tried and made last Sunday. (See UK-West Virginia, NCAA 2010). 10. Doron Lamb pout.

Contributed to his 2-of-11 shooting in 32 minutes against Vandy. NBA scouts notice.

11. Anthony Davis ... no repeat performance of 34 minutes against Festus Ezeli and Steve Tchiengang.

12. Anthony Davis’ average of four blocks in his last six college games.

13. Snatch and grab fouls away from the ball — Darius Miller and Doron Lamb.

14. Laugh off John Calipari whine about NCAA South bracket “... the only thing I was happy about is I heard that they were trying to get an exemption for the (Miami) Heat to be the second seed in our bracket and they weren’t allowed to.”

15. Technical foul on Calipari at crucial time (see UMass, Mar. 26, 1992).

16. New Orleans or bust. This is (basketball) Real World at Kentucky. Win everything or, we all know, the season goes on the heap.

17. Don’t forget sending thank you notes to Vandy, Florida and LSU.

MURRAY STATE

18. Maintain poise and patience, avoid foul trouble and understand tradition. OVC winners get no calls and little respect at the big dance. For the Racers, losing poise and patience will mean a quick trip home.

LOUISVILLE

19. Rick Pitino must not (will not) fritter away talking heads who pick Davidson to end the Cardinals’ season.

20. Peyton Siva has settled his team and himself into a groove. U of L’s point guard must avoid letting himself fall back, try and take a game over. And, stay out of foul trouble.

Cool mint pie is creamy, dreamy

Submitted to The Spencer Magnet

Terri Cooper's cool mint pie is a fun, delicious dessert that is perfect for celebrating St. Patrick's Day.

by DEANNA GODMAN
Magnet Freelancer

St. Patrick's Day has the potential to create fun memories of family traditions. The day can revolve around far more than wild parties and revelry. For kids, depictions of rainbows, leprechauns and all things green can elevate the day from ordinary to one talked about for years to come. It is fun to celebrate the minor holidays to help break up the year and give kids some sense of the rhythm of seasons.

Terri Cooper of Elk Creek once made cards with her five children to send to the long distance relatives. She cut a bell pepper in half so that it resembled a shamrock. She then filled a plate with green paint, and let her children use the bell pepper as a stamp. They stamped the paint onto the front of their cards. The stamps could also be used on canvas or heavy paper to create art that can be framed as used as St. Patrick's Day decor for years.

Children could also make art by using their handprints to make shamrocks or thumbprints to make rainbows.

Cooper's family dinners on St. Patrick's Day vary. Some years they enjoy corned beef and cabbage. Meal ideas can be as simple as dying regular meals green and as elaborate as planning Irish inspired menus such as corned beef stew.

The dish that has been a constant in the Cooper home for over 10 years is the Cool Mint Pie. Cooper's daughter Arden, who is now a freshman at the University of Kentucky, was 5 or 6 when they started making the pie. It has been a favorite in their home ever since.

"I don't remember where it came from, I've been doing it so long," said Cooper. "It's Arden's favorite."

The recipe calls for a homemade pie crust, but Cooper always uses a refrigerated store-bought crust when making this pie. For the chocolate decorations, she has a crinkle cutter that she picked up from a cooking retailer. Cooper also pipes the whipped topping onto the pie instead of spreading it. She likes to make the pie pretty. She uses Hershey's milk chocolate bars for the chocolate decorations.

St. Patrick's Day-themed desserts can include anything green or Irish-inspired. Pistachio and mint flavored desserts are common, as are desserts flavored with Guinness beer or Bailey's Irish Cream.

Cool Mint Pie

Pie crust (homemade or refrigerated store-bought)
3 milk chocolate bars
1 package cream cheese
½ cup milk
½ teaspoon peppermint extract
Green food coloring
1 package white chocolate instant pudding
1 container whipped topping
Bake the pie crust according to the package directions or the directions in the recipe. Allow cream cheese to soften while the crust bakes. Let the crust cool.

Combine softened cream cheese, milk, peppermint extract, food coloring and pudding. Fold half of the whipped cream into the peppermint mixture. Put the mixture in the pie crust. Let pie set up in the refrigerator for several hours.
To make the chocolate decorations, open the bars, and put the chocolate in a bowl. Melt the chocolate in the microwave by heating it in short bursts, about 20 seconds each time, and then stirring each time. Place waxed paper on a cookie sheet.

When the chocolate has melted, pour it on the cookie sheet and spread it in a layer.
Place the cookie sheet in the freezer. Once the chocolate is hard, cut it into pie wedge shaped pieces.
Stick the chocolate wedges into the firmed pie so that the chocolate is spiked out of the pie. Pipe whipped cream onto the top of the pie.

DENTIST

with Dr. James "Randy" Ransdell - Dentist

Question: I wear dentures but my physician has recommended I still see a dentist regularly. Why is this necessary?

Answer: Teeth just don't fall out on their own. A combination of rampant decay, abscess, or gum disease likely caused your tooth loss and unfortunately your remaining gums & bone can be subject to similar infections and problems. Your Physician has good instincts in recommending regular check-ups with your dentist. Imagine wearing a set of wet muddy boots for years without checking your feet...probably not going to happen. Why let the same can be true for what lurks under your denture. Without teeth or implants to support the bone, tissue under dentures can shrink. Over several years this results in increased movement of dentures, resulting sores, fungal infections, and increase in cancer formation. Please schedule a yearly dental examination to find minor problems before they become much bigger ones. If you have any questions about these medications or any dental questions, please call our office @502-477-5800 or e-mail us @ ransdelldentistry@hotmail.com.

REAL ESTATE

with David Taylor - Realtor

Question: I have just begun the process of looking to purchase a home. Do I have to work with the listing agent to see the home and make an offer?

Answer: No, you do not. If the home has been listed by an agent who is a Realtor "Member of a local Board of Realtors", they have agreed to co-operate with realtors from other companies. You are certainly free to contact the listing agent, but you are not obligated to do so. My advice to you is to work with an agent who you are comfortable with and who you have confidence in. There are many agents who specialize and just work with buyers. There is nothing wrong with interviewing more than one person for the job. You will be making a large investment and you want to make sure that your realtor knows the local market and is committed to representing your interests.

VETERINARIAN

with Dr. Daniel Bension - Veterinarian

Question: We are considering a cat for a house pet. Do cats need to be professionally groomed or have their nails trimmed?

Answer: Cats generally do not need to be groomed. They are naturally great groomers; however, if your cat has long or medium hair it is a great idea to help with their hair coat upkeep. Nail trimming is a great idea especially if your cat will be indoors; not just to minimize potential damage to furniture, but also for the health of the cat.

The facts about depression, part 2

COUNSELOR'S CORNER

by DR. JOHN LAPP
Licensed Professional Clinical Counselor

Well, as stated in last week's column, this is part two on this subject, so as not to leave you hanging and wondering, "what is wrong with me ... am I depressed, or am I just feeling down and maybe this will just pass if I just wait it out?"

Well, why not take the following simple self-rating depression scale by answering "true" to those that you feel are actually true: (taken from the book mentioned last week, "Happiness Is a Choice"):

1. I feel like crying now more often than a year ago.
2. I feel blue and sad.
3. I feel hopeless and helpless a good part of the time.
4. I have lost a lot of my motivation.

5. I have lost interest in things I once enjoyed.
6. I have had thoughts recently that life is just not worth living.
7. My sleep pattern has changed of late. I either sleep too much or too little.
8. I am losing my appetite.
9. I am too irritable.
10. I am anxious as of late.
11. I have less energy than usual.
12. Morning is the worst part of the day.
13. I find myself "introspecting" a lot (thinking too often 'what's wrong with me, anyway?').
14. When I look at myself in the mirror, I appear to be sad.
15. My self-concept is not very good.
16. I worry much about the past.
17. I have more physical symptoms (headaches, upset stomach, constipation, rapid heartbeat, etc.) than I did a year ago.
18. I believe people have noticed that I do not function as well at my job (or home) as I did in the past.

The authors of the book state, "Anyone who answers 'true' to a majority (nine or more) of these statements is almost certainly depressed and should seek professional assistance before the depression worsens."

Depression is often described as a devastating illness that affects the total being — physically, emotionally and spiritually. The authors state that "unlike a broken leg ... the pains of depression come on much more gradually. Many men and women are currently suffering from numerous symptoms of depression without even realizing that they suffer from depression rather than from some purely physical illness."

Five major categories of symptoms are described in a medical journal, dated in 1973 (and are still relevant today).

These categories are:

- Sad affect (moodiness): a sad facial expression, looks sad, cries often or feels like it, looks tired, discouraged and dejected; features are strained, may gradually lose interest in personal appearance.

- Painful thinking: it seems that the person would prefer to suffer broken bones than a broken heart; feels guilty when innocent; at fault, when blameless; feels deficient, maybe even worthless, although not actually true; gloomy, etc.
- Physical symptoms: quality of sleep, appetite affected, including unusual weight loss or gain; there are so many physical symptoms, too many to mention at this time, but suffice it to say that the person may hate to admit that he/she may have psychological conflicts which can be seen as a sign of weakness.
- Anxiety or Agitation: more irritable than usual, even more anxious than usual (although most people, at times, feel some form/level of anxiety).
- Delusional thinking: This can occur in very severe depressions. This person is clearly out of touch with reality, with perhaps notions of persecution, even hallucinations — hearing voices that can be condemning and accusing in nature, although, in reality, the voices are not really there.

If these named symptoms dis-able the individual biologically and socially, this could be described as a depressive neurosis, and the individual can actually be helped, and not have to continue for a long period of time, or a life-time of suffering.

However, if these symptoms continue and increase for too long, especially if a pattern of delu-sional thinking begins to occur too often/long, it could possibly require some form of hospitaliza-tion or intense therapy several times per week.

If any of the above symptoms are occurring with you, please do yourself a favor and get some help now so life can become better for you and you can begin to develop yourself to your full potential as a person, a partner and/or a parent.

You owe it to yourself to take care of yourself. If you don't take care of yourself, who will?

Children caring for elderly parents could be eligible for tax breaks

THE SAVVY SENIOR

Dear Savvy Senior

My wife and I provide a lot of financial support to my elderly mother and are wondering if any of it is tax deductible. What can you tell us?

Stretched Thin

Dear Stretched,

There is some tax relief available to adult children who help look after their aging parents or other relatives. But in order to be eligible, both you and your mom will need to meet Uncle Sam's criteria. Here's what you should know.

disability payments. But if your mom receives more than $3,700 from other sources, such as pension benefits, interest and dividends from investments, or withdrawals from retire-ment savings plans, you can't claim her as a depen-dent.

Support test: In addition to the income test, you must provide more than half of your mom's costs for hous-ing, food, medical care, transportation and other necessities. Even if all of your mom's income is from Social Security, you can't claim her as a dependent unless you pay more than half her living expenses.

It's also important to note that your mom doesn't have to live with you to qualify as a dependent, as long as she meets the income test and you provide more than half her financial support. If your mother lives with you, you can include a percentage of your mortgage, utilities and other expenses in calculating how much you contribute to her support. IRS Publication 501 (see www.irs.gov/pub/irs-pdf/p501.pdf) has a worksheet that can help you with this. To receive this, or other IRS publications or forms via mail, call 800-829-3676.

Shared Support

If you share the finan-cial responsibility for your mom with other siblings, you may be eligible for the IRS multiple-support dec-laration. Here's how this works. If one sibling is pro-viding more than half the parent's financial support, only that sibling can claim the parent. But if each sib-ling provides less than 50 percent support, but their combined assistance exceeds half the parent's support. In that case, any sibling who provides more than 10 percent can claim the parent as a dependent.

But only one sibling can claim the tax break in any given year. Siblings can rotate the tax break, with one claiming the parent one year, and another the next. The sibling who claims the parent as a dependent will need to fill out IRS Form 2120 (www.irs.gov/pub/irs-pdf/f2120.pdf) and file it with his or her tax return.

Medical Deductions

If you can't claim your mom as a dependent, you may still get a tax break for helping pay her medical costs. The IRS lets taxpay-ers deduct money spent on a parent's health care and qualified long-term care services, even if the parent doesn't qualify as a depen-dent.

To claim this deduction, you still must provide more than half your mom's sup-port, but your mom doesn't have to meet the income test. And the deduction is limited to medical, dental and long-term care expens-es that exceed 7.5 percent of your adjusted gross income. You can include your own medical expenses in calcu-lating the total. See the IRS publication 502 (www.irs.gov/pub/irs-pdf/p502.pdf) for details.

Check Your State

In addition to the federal tax breaks, more than 20 states offer tax credits and deductions for caregivers on state income taxes too. Check with your state tax agency to see what's avail-able.

Send your senior ques-tions to: Savvy Senior, P.O. Box 5443, Norman, OK 73070, or visit SavvySenior.org. Jim Miller is a contrib-utor to the NBC Today show and author of "The Savvy Senior" book.

IRS Eligibility

If you're helping finan-cially support your elderly mother, to get a tax deduc-tion you'll need to claim her as a dependent on your tax return. For the 2011 tax year, claiming an additional personal exemption would reduce your taxable income by $3,700. But to get this tax break, you'll need to pass the IRS's income and support tests:

Income test: To qualify as a dependent, your mom's 2011 gross income must have been less than $3,700. Her income from Social Security does not count toward that total, nor do

By virtue of order of the Spencer Circuit Court in the below listed actions, I shall proceed to offer for sale, at public auction, the properties described herein to the highest and best bidder at Spencer County Courthouse, 27 East Main Street, Taylorsville, Kentucky, on Friday, March 16, 2012, at or about 10:00 a.m. E.D.T., which property is located in Spencer County, Kentucky, to-wit:

SALE NO. 1: The Peoples Bank, Taylorsville v. John L. Bennett, et al., Civil Action No. 11-CI-00250, Spencer Circuit Court, Spencer County, Kentucky, the same property being commonly known as Lots 1, 2, 3, 4, 5, 6, 7, 8, 9, 10, 11, 12, 14, 15, 16, 17, 18, 20, 21, 22, 23, 24, 25, 26, 27 and 28 of Perfect Landing, Taylorsville, Kentucky 40071, more specifically described in Deed Book 220, Page 626, County Clerk's Office, Spencer County, Kentucky.

The foregoing real property shall be sold on terms of cash deposit or cashier's check or certified check in the amount of the purchase price, or 10% down at the time of sale and the balance thereof due and payable in thirty (30) days after date of sale, except as otherwise noted herein. The purchaser(s) of said property shall have the right to pay all or any part of the purchase price by cashier's or certified check on day of sale. If the purchaser(s) does not elect to pay the entire purchase price by cashier's or certified check, the Special Master Commissioner shall take from the purchaser(s) by cashier's or certified check the sum of 10% down and a good and sufficient bond with surety acceptable to the Special Master Commissioner payable to the Special Master Commissioner for the balance of said purchase price, and bearing interest from date of sale at the rate of 12% per annum until paid in full.

Each item of property shall be sold subject to the following:

A. All city, state, county and school real estate taxes, current and delinquent;

B. Easements, restrictions, stipulations and agreements of record in the Office of the Clerk of the County Court of Spencer County, Kentucky;

C. Assessments for public improvements levied against the property;

D. Any facts which an inspection and accurate survey of the property may disclose;

E. Any and all planning and zoning regulations imposed upon the subject property.

SALE NO. 1: The amount of money to be raised is in excess of the sum of $740,623.09 and $8,611.07 plus interest and costs as set out in the final Judgment and Order of Sale of the Spencer Circuit Court dated February 9, 2012.

MASTER COMMISSIONER'S NOTE

All prospective purchasers are advised to fully understand and consider the following:

1. All properties are sold strictly as is, with no warranties expressed or implied. Properties shall be sold at Spencer County Courthouse, 27 East Main Street, Taylorsville, KY 40071. Inspections are arranged by the Court or the Special Master Commissioner by appointment only.

2. Risk of loss to improvements to real estate shifts to purchaser as of date of sale. Insurance should be placed immediately by successful bidder.

3. All properties sold for less than two-thirds of appraised value subject to current owner statutory right of redemption pursuant to Kentucky Revised Statutes.

4. Rights of possession given to purchasers with deed, but holdover occupants of real estate may require additional Court action by purchaser to acquire actual possession.

5. Master Commissioner's deed warrants title only so far as authorized by the judgment, orders and proceedings of the Court, but no further. Independent title examination by successful purchaser is recommended prior to confirmation of sale.

The purchaser(s) of said property shall have the right to pay all or any part of the purchase price by cashier's or certified check on day of sale. If the purchaser(s) does not elect to pay the entire purchase price by cashier's or certified check, the Special Master Commissioner shall take from the purchaser(s) by cashier's or certified check the sum of 10% down and a good and sufficient bond with surety acceptable to the Special Master Commissioner payable to the Special Master Commissioner for the balance of said purchase price, and bearing interest from date of sale at the rate of 12% per annum until paid in full.
Each item of property shall be sold subject to the following:
A. All city, state, county and school real estate taxes, current and delinquent;
B. Easements, restrictions, stipulations and agreements of record in the Office of the Clerk of the County Court of Spencer County, Kentucky;
C. Assessments for public improvements levied against the property;
D. Any facts which an inspection and accurate survey of the property may disclose;
E. Any and all planning and zoning regulations imposed upon the subject property.

SALE NO. 1: The amount of money to be raised is in excess of the sum of $100,834.00, $451,233.91 and $187,504.25 plus interest and costs as set out in the final Judgment and Order of Sale of the Spencer Circuit Court dated February 23, 2012.

MASTER COMMISSIONER'S NOTE
All prospective purchasers are advised to fully understand and consider the following:
1. All properties are sold strictly as is, with no warranties expressed or implied. Properties shall be sold at Spencer County Courthouse, 27 East Main Street, Taylorsville, KY 40071. Inspections are arranged by the Court or the Special Master Commissioner by appointment only.
2. Risk of loss to improvements to real estate shifts to purchaser as of date of sale. Insurance should be placed immediately by successful bidder.
3. All properties sold for less than two-thirds of appraised value subject to current owner statutory right of redemption pursuant to Kentucky Revised Statutes.
4. Rights of possession given to purchasers with deed, but holdover occupants of real estate may require additional Court action by purchaser to acquire actual possession.
5. Master Commissioner's deed warrants title only so far as authorized by the judgment, orders and proceedings of the Court, but no further. Independent title examination by successful purchaser is recommended prior to confirmation of sale.

Nathan L. Lester (1980), speeding 16 miles over the legal limit, guilty, $32 fine and $143 court costs; operating on a suspended/revoked operators license, amended to no license in possession, guilty, $20 fine. All fines and fees to be paid in installments/deferred payment.

Stacy G. Nalley (1984), operating a motor vehicle under the influence of alcohol/drugs first offense, guilty, $728 fine, 30 days suspended operators license, alcohol and drug education program. All fines and fees to be paid in installments/deferred payment.

Jacob S. Redmon (1994), speeding 17 miles over the legal limit, guilty, state traffic school, $143 court costs, to be paid in installments/deferred payment.

Alexandria N. Shricliffe (1994), speeding 12 miles over the legal limit, guilty, $24 fine and $143 court costs, to be paid in installments/deferred payment.

Alexandria N. Shircliffe (1994), speeding 16 miles over the legal limit, guilty, state traffic school, $143 court costs, to be paid in installments/deferred payment.

Trey Pursley (1994), speeding 25 miles over the legal limit, guilty, $198 in fines and fees, to be paid in installments/deferred payment.

Misdemeanor:

Charles M. Broaddus (1990), buy/possess drug paraphernalia, guilty, $50 fine, $153 court costs and $25 bond filing fee. Fines and fees to be paid in installments/deferred payment.

John C. Higgs (1974), plumbing license required, guilty, $200 fine, $100 conditionally discharged for two years with the condition of no new plumbing violations, $153 court costs.

William N. Smith (1974), three counts of theft by deception to include cold checks under $500, guilty, $183 costs, surety will apply bond to pay restitution and costs.

Felony:

William N. Smith (1974), theft

by deception to include cold checks under $10,000, amended to under $500, guilty, $183 court costs, surety will apply bond to restitution and costs.

INDICTMENT

The following indictment was handed down by a Spencer County Grand Jury on Feb. 23, 2012:

COUNT 1: That on or between July 1, 2004, and Feb. 22, 2012, in Spencer County, John W. Jackson, 42, of the 8000 block of Lawrenceburg Road, committed the offense of flagrant non-support when he persistently failed to provide support which he could reasonably provide and which he had knowledge of the duty to provide by virtue of a Spencer District Court order pertaining to his minor child, thereby accruing an arrearage of not less than $1,000 and/or failing to make payments for at least six consecutive months.

Make sure to keep checking the Public Record page, as property transfers will soon return!

BACK IN TIME

McClain, Marattay named to '62 UK Committee of 240

50 years ago
March 8, 1962

Miss Annette McClain, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Scott McClain, Route 1, Taylorsville, and Miss Berttye Sue Marattay, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. W. J. Marattay, also of Route 1, have been named to the University of Kentucky Committee of 240. The organization is made up of students from each of Kentucky's 120 counties. Students selected for the committee represent the university in their home communities. Their main assignment is to visit the high schools in their respective counties, presenting information on the University and answering questions of students. Committee members are chosen on the basis of their academic and leadership abilities, and demonstrated interest in serving the university. Miss McClain is a sophomore at UK, majoring in elementary education. Miss Marattay is a senior at UK, majoring in library science.

Thursday, March 1, the Junior Varsity met the Lincoln Institute Tigers in the District Tournament at Shelby County High School. The JV were defeated 38-22. The JV fell behind, and with the Tigers controlling most of the rebounds, couldn't seem to come through.

High point men were Billy D. McKinley with 9, and Clayton Redmon and Scottie Greer each had 4 points. On the whole, the JV had a fine season.

Friday, the Bears met the Lincoln Institute Club and were defeated 51-31. First quarter play was slow but the Bears managed to lead most of the quarter. The great height advantage of the Tigers became evident as they controlled the boards. This was the big difference. The Bears fought hard but couldn't contend with the powerful Lincoln Institute Club.

The high point men were Morgan Day with 11, Larry Hickman, 7. The Bears, despite a few heartbreaking defeats, managed a season's record to be proud of. Final tally was 16 wins against 11 losses.

Members of the Ecology Club will be guests at the regular meeting of the Business and Professional Women's Club, Monday evening, March 20. Mrs. Barbara Snider, youth power chairman, will be in charge of the program.

Mrs. Snider said there will be a panel discussion. Also, Mrs. Sara Day, who represented the club at a meeting held Friday, March 10, will report on the Friday meeting of the Ecology Club.

The meeting begins at 7:30 p.m. at the community center.

A credit-card-sized birth card which can substitute in most cases for a birth certificate is available to Kentucky-born individuals, according to Lewis Bush, director of the Office of Vital Statistics, State Department of Health.

All persons planning to request the card must have his birth certificate on file in the Office of Vital Statistics in Frankfort.

To order a card a person should get an application form from his local health department. Most hospitals also have the form. The card costs $2.

Louisville Mayor Harvey Sloane, campaign chairman for the Kentucky Easter Seal Society, has announced the appointment of Cissy Musselman, who will serve as the Telethon Chairman of the 1982 Easter Seal Campaign. Ms. Musselman will be overseeing all telethon committee activities including business and corporate gifts, special solicitations, and general telethon promotion for the Easter Seal Society.

"I am looking forward to helping Kentucky's handicapped children and adults by serving in this capacity," Ms. Musselman stated.

The Easter Seal Telethon in Louisville will be aired March 27 and 28 on WDRB-TV, Channel 41, and will be for the benefit of handicapped children and adults served by the Kentucky Easter Seal Society.

The Spencer County Class of 1982 with the cooperation of the Speech and Drama Club is proud to present "Cheaper by the Dozen," a three-act comedy depicting the trials and sorrows of raising twelve children in the mid-twenties.

It will be performed on March 19 and 20 at 8:00 p.m. and Sunday, March 21 at 3:00 p.m. in the Spencer County High School Gym.

During a City Commission meeting, Spencer Judge-Executive David Jenkins along with CAE engineer Joe Sisler, discussed the city's and county's options for a countywide sewage system.

Though a few options do currently exist for cities and counties when it comes to sewage systems, Sisler and Jenkins told the commission that joint authorities, which are sewage systems maintained and run by both the county and city, are definitely the way of the future.

"My suggestion would be a join city-county system. I believe it would be easier in the long run to have everything and everyone working together," Sisler said.

Jenkins agreed, saying that he would like to have a committee, made up of representatives from both the county and city, look at the options for a joint system.

Hilltoppers started the season 5-11, lost a game where the opponents played with six men on the court, and then endured a mid-season coaching change. That seemed to do the trick. The fans must have been eager for a change because they began filling up Diddle Arena again — and the team responded. The Hilltoppers are one of the youngest teams in the country, with a number of freshmen logging most of the minutes, and they put together a late-season run that carried over into the Sun Belt Conference Tournament and like magic — here they are in the middle of March Madness. They'll have a play-in game against Mississippi Valley State on Tuesday, and if they win, they'll have the unenviable task of taking on the top-seeded Kentucky Wildcats. But for the Hilltoppers, success came with a new coach, a new attitude and talented young team that could be an NCAA tournament regular for many years to come. If they return to the tournament next year — you can guarantee it will be with a significantly higher seed. MURRAY STATE: The Racers have had a magical season that has them boasting a 30-1 record, the best in the nation. They got some national attention midway through the season, but things have been a little quiet around Murray of late, and maybe that's a good thing. Murray is a quality team that could easily knock off a couple of big names. The Racers have had success in the tournament before, beating a much higher-seeded Vanderbilt squad a couple of seasons ago, and making a nice run back in the 90s when they had a guy by the name of PopEye Jones who went on to a nice career in the NBA. Thankfully, Murray gets to play its first two games in Louisville where it will be able to bring many of its home fans, and the Racers will be bolstered by thousands dressed in UK blue cheering on their home-state brethren.

Don't forget the other tournaments. The NCAA Women's Tournament selection was scheduled for Monday, and both Louisville and Kentucky are figured to be contenders. Also, the NCAA Division II Tournament is underway with Kentucky Wesleyan and Bellarmine still in the running. The Bellarmine Knights are the defending champions and their repeat success is just further evidence of why we live in the best place in the world for college basketball.

ful high school event in Kentucky. However, as in years past, 16 teams representing 16 different regions of the state will converge in Lexington over four days to crown the champion of high school basketball. Last week, Louisville Manuel took the girl's title.

As you rehab, you'll be a hop, skip and a jump from home.

Green Meadows Health Care Facility is right here in our community, Mount Washington, so when you're recovering from an illness or hospital stay, you can be close to home without having to be home.

That's important because recovering with us is more effective than trying to do it at home and your family and friends will be nearby. Because they'll be close, they can visit more frequently while you take advantage of the more effective treatment we can offer.

And then, you'll be going home before you know it. Of course, if you choose to hop, skip and jump when you get there, that's entirely up to you.
